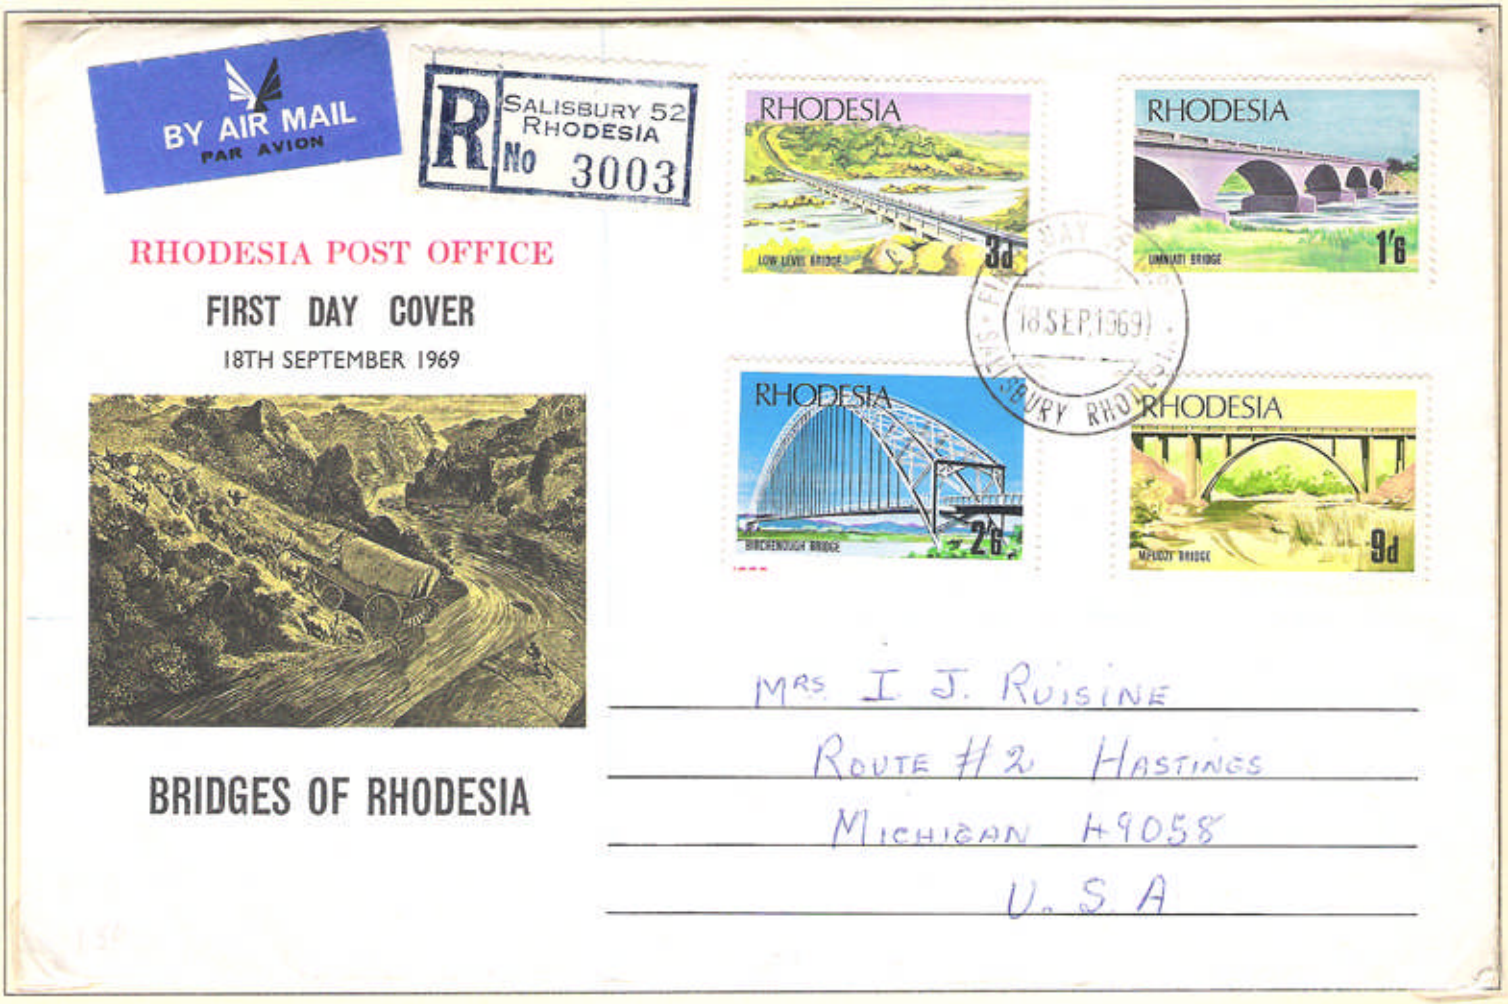
Bridging The Gap



Registered international Air mail on first day cover

This display exhibit is about different kinds of bridges. A bridge is a structure that connects one place to another place. Bridges are important because they connect people together. They make it easier to cross rivers and canyons, railroad tracks, and roads. These structures help us to bridge the gap.